PURPOSE AND CONTENT

Internal medicine is expanding at a fast pace. Every year, new therapies are developed and new guidelines and standards of care are recommended across the spectrum of diseases we manage. Busy primary care physician and internists are faced with the growing challenge of keeping abreast of all the advances.

The annual Update in Internal Medicine CME Conference is designed to help clinicians meet the challenge. The course will offer state-of-the-art, practical advice on common conditions and exciting new developments such as advances in applying molecular techniques in translational medicine.

Due to the continued COVID-19 pandemic, the 2022 conference will present a hybrid learning approach of a one-day live and synchronous online presentations and pre-recorded on-demand presentations. The content will be available for up to one year after the conference totaling 18 units CME credit and the opportunity to apply for MOC within the timing requirements of the ABIM rules.

EDUCATIONAL OBJECTIVES

Upon completion of this activity, participants should be able to:

- Apply appropriate colon cancer screening approaches and intervals based on patient risk.
- Utilize an evidence-based, systematic approach to anti-hyperglycemic medication selection based on cardiac risk.
- Utilize an evidence-based approach to COVID-19 based on the stage and severity of disease.
- Develop an evidence-based approach to outpatient musculoskeletal complaints for initial diagnosis and management.

- Identify key novel treatment approaches to renal and bladder cancers and their common associated side effects.
- Develop an evidence-based framework for approaching conversations around end-of-life and goals of care discussions with patients with serious illness.
- Develop a diagnostic approach to primary hyperaldosteronism in patients with resistant HTN.
- Examine the role of new molecularly targeted therapies in the management of bronchiectasis due to CF.
- Develop a systematic approach to hyponatremia and hypernatremia diagnosis and treatment.

TARGET AUDIENCE

This CME Conference is designed for: primary care providers, nurse practitioners, physician assistants, and specialists in Internal Medicine and Family Practice seeking updates in practical knowledge relating to patient care.

SPONSORED BY

This CME Conference is sponsored by UT Southwestern Department of Internal Medicine and the Office of Continuing Medical Education.

ACCREDITATION AND DESIGNATION STATEMENT
