Tuesday February 28, 2017

6:30 PM– 8:00 PM

William P Clements University Hospital Education Center (2nd floor)
6201 Harry Hines Blvd, Dallas, TX 75390

Program Directors:

Tasaduq Mir, MD, FAAFP, Assistant Professor

Zaiba Jetpuri, DO, MBA, FAAFP, Assistant Professor

Expert Panel:

Nancy Kelly, MD, MPH, Associate Professor (Pediatrics)

Philip Day, PhD, Faculty Associate (Ethics)

Overview: This activity provides an opportunity to review and present what is relevant to primary care and advance experience about up to date information applicable to day-to-day practice. Reemergence of vaccine preventable diseases although not that common remains a potential threat. More and more parents are declining to get their kids vaccinated since some of them have never seen or experienced what it meant to have Polio or severe Measles or Mumps. This talk will address this issue and also touch the ethical dilemma regarding how to handle parents and kids who decline to get vaccinated.

Who should attend? Residents in training, fellows, medical students and other interested health care professionals at UTSW and Community primary care.
